Treatment We prescribe:

✔ Acoustic Wave Therapy

West Coast Men's Health is a Men's health clinic Chicago provides acoustic wave therapy as a treatment option for erectile dysfunction (ED). Acoustic wave therapy, also known as low-intensity shockwave therapy, is a non-invasive procedure that utilizes focused sound waves to improve blood flow and promote tissue regeneration in the penis. During acoustic wave therapy, a handheld device delivers low-intensity sound waves to targeted areas of the penis. These sound waves stimulate the growth of new blood vessels and improve blood circulation, thereby enhancing erectile function and potentially improving overall sexual performance.

Our aim behind providing this therapy is to address the underlying causes of ED by promoting tissue repair and improving vascular health. It can be an effective treatment option for men who experience ED due to conditions such as poor blood flow, compromised blood vessels, or penile tissue damage. The therapy is administered by our experienced healthcare professionals who specialize in men's sexual health. Our healthcare professionals at West Coast Men's Health Clinic will provide personalized guidance and develop a treatment plan tailored to your needs.
